

LAZY LANGUAGE CLUB · BELGRADE

Bring a language tasting to your space.

A warm, low-pressure language event for cafés & art spaces — guests taste languages over a drink, with headphones and good company.

Saturday evenings

free for the venue

Not a class — a tasting.

An evening where guests sample several languages: hear a native in the headphones, repeat, then chat with a partner — and swap. Guided by Nelli, who's run a language club for 2.5 years.

Listen

Scan a QR, a native reads the line into your headphones.

Shadow

Repeat out loud — catch the sound, no grammar drills.

Speak

Run the dialogue with a partner, then swap partners.

02 · WHAT WE NEED FROM YOU

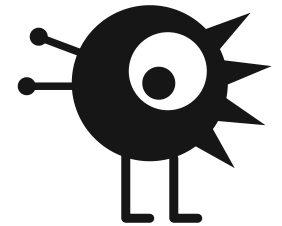

You host. We run it.

- A cozy corner for up to 10 people
- One weekend slot (Sat evening or Sun brunch)
- A shout-out to your community (one post / story)

We arrive 20 min early · hang 6–7 A3 sheets on your walls · run 2 hours · clear up after. No equipment needed from you.

✓ You keep all bar revenue

✓ No fee from either side

A cultural event that pays its way.

- 10 language-curious guests on a Saturday — expats and locals, mixed and engaged
- Bar tab for the full 2 hours: the format is social, guests stay and order
- 6–8 shareable photos every session — content without effort
- Monthly recurring if the room loves it, one-off if you prefer — you decide after the pilot

04 · THE BIGGER PICTURE

A small bridge between expats & locals.

People who live side by side in Belgrade, actually talking — in several languages, over a drink.

One reply is all it takes:

do you have a free Saturday slot?
